Head Start Services

4-C, working in partnership with Family & Children's Place, offers the Greater Louisville Head Start program – a free program that will ultimately help nearly 450 families each year by enhancing each child's growth and development, strengthening parents' ability to nurture their child, connecting families with needed community resources, and providing children with educational, health, and nutritional services. This year, families were able to choose between daily programs at five 4-C partner learning centers around Louisville.

Partner Programs

Some program offerings of note for this year include: partnering with KYA in the Kosair Charities Face It® Movement to help recognize and end child abuse; partnering with the James Graham Brown and C.E. and S. Foundations in the Pathways to Excellence program to support child care centers in low-income areas of Jefferson County with professional development opportunities.

Advocacy

4-C maintains a pro-active public policy program, with the goal of influencing local, state, and national child care policies and serves as a voice for children and families. We carry out these program goals by identifying and developing resources for families and child care programs; partnering with business, government, and communities to demonstrate that child care is critical to social wellbeing and economic development; and collecting, developing and disseminating information about child care programs.

Help for Families

4-C's Information and Referral program matches parents seeking child care with local child care providers that meet their family's needs. Our website provides 24 hour access to valuable tools and information about child care services, news, advocacy alerts, and abuse prevention, among others.

“ The KY Shared Services platform has been a huge help to me this year. Especially during the pandemic, it kept me updated on everything that I needed to know to thrive during that very trying time.

“ This training gives resources to educators to help keep children not only safe, but thriving. I will meet families where they are. I will offer support. The trainings are always well received, high quality, and full of useful information. Thank you! Your commitment to professional development opportunities is unmatched.
